The great charm of Cape Town is the magnificent mountain. It rises behind the city and is a sheer precipice to a height of 1 097m (3.566ft) cutting the skyline with a horizontal front three kilometres (almost two miles) in length. The best views are from the top of Table Mountain. The cableway takes you to the summit in under ten minutes whilst rotating gondola's ensure visitors enjoy a 360 view of the city.

The SA Museum houses more than one and a half million specimens of scientific importance. For nearly 200 years scientists at the Museum have been adding to these collections and studying them. The collections now range from fossils almost 700 million years old to insects and fish caught last week. There are also stone tools made by people 120 000 years ago, traditional clothes from the last century, and T-shirts printed yesterday. The Castle of Good Hope, is a pentagonal fortress built by the Dutch East India Company in the 1660's and 1670's. Today it is home to the regional headquarters of the South African Defence Force in the Western Cape and a military museum. En route back to the hotel, drive through the historical Cape Malay Quarters, namely Bo-Kaap.

The Cape of Good Hope section of the Cape Peninsula National Park's flora is something to behold, with its fynbos species found nowhere else in the world. Stop at Boulders Beach, to see the penguins.
